The parishes

St. Helier
St. Helier is the capital of the island. The cosmopolitan harbour town is bustling with life, shops, restaurants, bars, and galleries.

St. Lawrence
St. Lawrence parish occupies the centre of the island. The parish is mainly inland and home to Hamptonne, a 15th Century house and farm with animals, tours and a cider apple orchard.

St. Saviour
One of the eastern parishes, St. Saviour is mainly residential with a very small coastline named Le Dicq, home to local favourite Dicq Shack Thai.

Grouville
Tucked in the south east of the island is Grouville, a quaint parish with a beautiful sweeping coast, the Royal Bay of Grouville and the Royal Jersey Golf Club.

St. Clement
South easterly St. Clement is the smallest parish on the island. Its coastal road highlights iconic coastal defences including Seymour and Icho Tower.

St. Martin
The most easterly parish, St. Martin is made up of a number of picturesque villages including Gorey, Rozel and St. Catherine.

St. Trinity
Trinity occupies the north east of the island, and is known for its rural landscapes. It is home to the world-famous Jersey Zoo, and the highest point in Jersey - Les Platons.

St. John
Situated on the north coast, St. John boasts epic views from its cliff tops. Rural and open it is one of the least populated parishes on the island.

St. Mary
In the north west of the island is St. Mary. The rural parish is home to Devil’s Hole complete with stunning views of the north coast and the striking Moulin de Lecq pub, housed in a 600 year old water mill.

St. Peter
St. Peter is the only parish with two coastlines, intersecting both St. Ouen’s Bay and St. Aubin’s Bay. St. Peter’s Valley is in the heart of the parish, a leafy valley with a stream and an ancient mill from the 13th Century.

St. Brelade
In the south west of the island stands St. Brelade, most known for its beach culture: the sheltered sandy bays of St. Brelade, Portelet and Beauport and a special fisherman’s chapel “La Chapelle ès Pêcheurs.”

St. Ouen
The largest parish in the island, occupying the north west of the island, St. Ouen is open and coastal with far stretches of both the north and west coast and plenty of refreshing salty air.

Getting around
Find your way

Jersey may be small, but don’t underestimate it’s hidden depths.

From winding ‘green lanes’ to scenic coastal touring routes, steep cliff top panoramas and cycle routes that hug the coast - if you’re keen to explore, you’ll find the journey just as much part of the experience as the destination. From rental cars to cycle hire, our local bus network or visitor bus tours, discover how easy it is to explore Jersey.
Getting around

Find your way

Driving
In Jersey, we drive on the left. The island’s speed limit is set to 40 mph / 64 km per hour and despite its small size, you’ll find plenty to explore with over 350 miles of paved road winding between fields, farms and along the coastline.

Just walk
That’s right. Jersey’s small on size, but rich in off-the-beaten-track locations, making it perfect to explore on foot. Enjoy the freedom and uncover a whole island’s worth of unique perspectives and serendipitous discoveries from tree-lined country lanes that open out to spectacular sea views, or finding hidden-away bays and beaches all to yourself.

Public transport and taxis
Let someone else take the wheel and use Jersey’s network of public transport and taxis to navigate your way around the island. With easy to use and regular services linking the island’s main locations and attractions with the central bus station at Liberation Station, Jersey’s public transport and taxi network makes it easy to explore and go where you please. Most buses have easy access for wheelchair users.

Cycling
With a network of cycle routes that run beside the coast and along quiet country lanes, hire a bicycle and you’re free to explore. Our recommendation? Collect a cycle route map from our Visitor Centre and plan a route, with a picnic stop along the way. Pack your panniers with a picnic from La Belle Gourmande delicatessen in St. Aubin or the Central Market in St. Helier.
